Still, with the rush in things nautical, there was no lack of other gayety in Newport last week. Promised entertainments are beginning to ma-terialize, as dates for balls, dances and picnics are being arranged daily, while introductory dinner and parties of nearly every description are given every night for the new belies and beauties who arriving every day. On Monday the interest social incidents were the reception with music given by Miss C. Ogden Jones, the interesting pracgame of pole preparatory to this week's tour-James Hude Beekman, Mrs. Alexander Bar ently every person in the summer colony. The display of costumes was unusually elaborate. J. Borden Harriman looked exceedingly handsome a gown of rich primrose satin; Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt was in steel-colored moire; Miss Vanderbilt wore an extremely pretty gown of an apple-Brooks was in black moiré, trimmed with jet and point lace; Mrs. William F. Burden's gown of white silk, brocaded with branches of placs, and made with pink miroir velvet sleeves Miss Grace Wilson were a gown of pink moire, the large puffed sleeves being made of shell pink chiffon, heavily spangled with gold; Miss Gammell's gown was of pink brocaded satin, trimmed with turquoise-blue velvet, and Miss Barret was in yellow satin and chiffon.

The principal cottage entertainment on Tuesday night was Mrs. William Astor's dinner party a Beechwood. Her guests included Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mr. and Mrs. Orme Wilson, Mr. James P. Kernochan, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. I. Townsend Burden, Mrs. Brockholst Cutting, Mr. and Mrs. Chrisopher R. Robert, Mrs. Charles H. Baldwin, Miss Josephine Johnson, Mrs. F. Grand d'Hauteville, Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, Elliot Gregory, Colonel George R. Fearing, Thomas F. Cushing and Lispenard Stewart. Mrs. Astor gave her second dinner party on Thursday evening. Then her guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Miss Grace Wil-Miss Vanderbilt, Miss Kitty Garrison, Miss Burden, Miss Alice Elight, Miss Daisy Post, Miss Eustis, Miss Tiffany, Miss Whitehouse, Miss Hoffman, Richard T. Wilson, jr., Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., Reginald Ronalds, Perry Belmont, Lispenard Stewart, Center Hitchcock, Charles E. Whitney Warren, Lord Westmeath, H. O. Bax-Ironsides, Winthrop Rutherfurd and Moses Taylor. The social programme on Wednesday in-cluded luncheons by Mr. and Mrs. Jordan L. Mott, jr., and Mrs. Calvin S. Brice, a yachting party by Perry Belmont, and dinner parties by Mr. Belmont, whose guest of honor was Secretary Herbert; by Mr. and Mrs. James P. Kernochan, General and Mrs. J. Watts Kearny, Mrs. Gouverneur Kortright George Henry Warren and Mrs. W. Fitzhugh Whitehouse. The women who have gone in for in-tellectual entertainments assembled in the morning at Graystone, the home of Mrs. John J. Wysong, at Wisner's French conferences, the subject being "Les Romans de Chopin." Thursday was one of busiest days of the week. Mrs. Francis P. Freeman gave a reception, with music, in the afternoon at her home, Tower Top, in Bellevue-ave when Miss Foote, Miss Hastings, Alfred G. Lang ley and Archibald Crawford appeared in a delight ful programme of music, and in the evening Mrs. Kernochan, Miss Josephine Johnson Mrs. Astor and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish entertained ent, was a sumptuous banquet. There were forty guests seated in the two dining-rooms. Then followed the Casino subscription ball, which was everything the promoters and subscribers could have wished it. No more brilliant gathering was ever before seen within the walls of the Casino Theatre, where the dance took place. The decora-tions were extremely handsome, and the disposition of the plants, flowers and tapestries was most effective. The lower plazza, ornamented with Chinese lanterns, was used by promenaders, while the upper plazza, which was inclosed and brilliantly minated, was the supper hall. It was a late ball, it being almost midnight before general dancing was well under way. The patronesses, among whom were Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. W. Fitzhugh Whitehouse, Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mrs. Whitney Warren, Mrs. Ogden Goelet, Mrs. Frederick Sheldon, Mrs. Brockholst Cutting, Mrs. Victor Sorchon and Mrs. Henry A. C. Taylor, were present and assisted to receive the guests. The cotillion was danced immediately after supper, James Otis leading, with Miss Hattle Gammell as his partner. There were about eighty couples in the dance. The favors were flowers, sachets and ribbons for the women and fancy articles for the men. The gowns and jewels were suggestive of one of the Assembly bails, in the season, in New-York; indeed, it was remarked that the silks, satins, brocades and laces looked much fresher than those displayed at some of the fashionable balls in New-York. Mrs. Brock-holst Cutting was in peach-colored silk, combined with black velvet and lace; Mrs. Alva S. Vanderbilt wore a rich gown of pink satin and some superbearl ornaments; Miss Gammell was in a gown of rose-pink satin, with irimmings of lace; Miss Evelyn Burfaen wore a gown of white striped satin, touched with red ribbon; Miss Edith Cushing was in pink tulle and white satin; Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt wore a beautiful gown of pale blue satin, the corsage trimmed with chiffon; Miss Beach wore a gown of white satin, the surface scattered with pink roses; Miss Allor Preston wore a white satin, pink roses; Miss Allor of preston wore a white satin and chiffon; Miss Whitehouse wore trimmed with pink chiffon; Miss Beach wore a with satin, and white satin, under embroidered mull. The coullion was danced until nearly 2:39 oclock.

Friday was another busy day for the fashionable people. Luncheons were given by Mrs. George W. Wales and Mrs. Kernochan, and dinner parties by Wales whom were Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. tzhugh Whitehouse, Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mrs.

WEENN AND LARNED TIED.

THEIR SCORES EVEN IN THE NORWOOD TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Long Branch, N. J., Aug. 16 (Special).-Wrenn and Larned are tied for first place in the Norwood tenhis tournament as the result of to-day's playing.
This splits yesterday's quartet, when Wrenn, Larned, Chace and Stevens were all on a par, with Chace and Larned opened this morning's card four wins each. with a neck-and-neck race for the winning post. Larned started with the service, and took the opening game after a close fight. Then Chace closed up with the next, and the match seesawed back and forth in this way for two sets. Neither player had a lead of more than one game, except in the last set, when the Providence expert acknowledged defeat by practically throwing up the match, and was finally beaten by a score of 7-5.

Larned played with a racket which was minus buple of strings, but it did good enough service fairly to bury the balls in the ground when the Summit man let himself out for some hard hitting. Chace's service was unusually poor, and he lost a dozen points at least on doubled faults. In fact the net bagged a large proportion of everything he hit and Larned won as much on Chace's errors as he did on his own good plays. What little smash-he for the control of the control of the control of the hig Chace did was weak and ragged, while Larned from the control of the contro bought down balls that were going out, apparently for the mere pleasure of killing them. The latter player worked the four corners almost continually.

and his ground strokes were strong and fast Meanwhile, on an adjoining court, Wrein had defeated his old rival, Stevens, in the match which was postponed from last Tuesday, when darkness but an end to the play at two sets all. Stevens was best two out of three. Wrenn won it in two straightests, 6-4, 6-3.

The champion showed great judgment in hitting hard from the start, as Stevens had great difficulty in covering the court, and falled to connect with a number of Wrenn's hot drives. The latter pounded Stevens for steady gains, never letting up for a moment in his pace. Some of his placed shots fairly cut the corners, although Stevens also distinguished himself by the clever way in which he slipped into unoccupied territory.

The tie between Wrenn and Larned will be played off on Monday. The summary:

W. A. Larned, Summit, N. J., beat Malcolm Chace, Providence, R. 1, 7-5, 8-6, 6-1; R. D. Wrenn, Chicago, beat Richard Stevens, Hoboken, N. J. 6-4, 6-3.

The standing of the players is as follows:

TEN BODIES IN ALL TAKEN FROM THE WEST BROADWAY RUINS.

ARREST OF JOSEPH GUIDER, WHO WAS CON-TRACTOR FOR THE PLASTERING WORK ON THE COLLAPSED BUILDING.

Three more bodies were recovered from the ruins the collapsed building at Third-st, and West Broadway yesterday, making the total number of dead ten. Seven are still unaccounted for. The bod-les recovered yesterday were those of James Grasso, Edward Healey and an unknown man, supposed to be Thomas McGuire.

The list of dead is: BURKE, John, forty-five years old, plasterer, No. 186 Seventh-ave., Brooklyn. FLINN, Michael, thirty-four years old, No. 84 Third-ave., Brooklyn.

GRASSO, James, forty-two years old, Italian laborer, No. 432 East One-hundred-and-twelfth-st. HANLY, Edward, thirty-two years old, plasterer, No. 419 DeKalb-ave., Brooklyn. O'HARA, Michael, forty years old, No. 112 Walworth-st.; PETERSON, Charles E., twenty-five years old, No. 10 West Flity-third-st.

SAVAGE, Michael, thirty-four years old, No. 739 Myrtle-

SCHMIDT, John W., laborer, No. 217 East Ninety-sixth-st. Unknown man, supposed to be Thomas McGuire, plasterer, No. 10 Coles-st., Jersey City.

An employe of the Health Department visited the ruins yesterday morning and sprinkled the debris

Superintendent Constable, of the Building partment, visited the ruins about 9 o'clock in the orning and remained for nearly an hour watching the progress of the work. Enough of the debris has not yet been removed to offer him an opportunity of beginning his investigation into the cause of the lisaster. The general opinion now prevails that the centre pillar was faulty.

It was learned yesterday afternoon that when the steam fittings were put in the build-ing, they were found to be an inch short measurements. The contractor thought his men had made a mistake, and took measure-ments himself. When the workmen started to put in the fittings a second time they were found to be another half-inch short. It is said that the con-tractor did not think this remarkable until the be another half-inch short. It also that the collapse occurred.

Joseph Guider, of No. 773 Bergen-st., Brooklyn, who was the contractor for the plastering work on the building, was arrested at the ruins yesterday and locked up in the Mercer-st. station. He was taken into custody upon a warrant issued by Coroner Fitzpatrick. His arrest is believed to be due to the assumption that the floors were overweighted with plaster, and that this caused the collapse. It was learned that Guider employed non-union plasterers from Brooklyn, and that a strike upon the building was imminent. It is said that the strike was to have been ordered yesterday. It is further asserted that Guider's anxiety over the threatened strike led him to store away so much plaster in the building. An investigation of the disaster is to be made by the Board of Walking Dielegates. The matter was brought up at their meeting yesterday, and a committee was appointed to make an examination of the ruins and seek to place the responsibility for the disaster.

STIRRING NEWS FROM CUBA.

IMPORTANT LETTERS BROUGHT ON THE AN ORGANIZED CONSPIRACY TO SWINDLE STEAMSHIP NIAGARA.

-CONFLICTING RUMORS ADOUT MONEY-ANXIOUS TO BE RECOGNIZED

AS BELLIGERENTS.

The news of the formation of a Provisional Government in Cuba, and the election of Bartolome Masso as President, was confirmed by messages brought to Senor Estrada Palma, the newly elected felegate of the Cuban Revolutionary party in this country, by the steamship Niagara, of the Ward yesterday. This news came earlier in the week, and while there was no manifest disposition on the part of the Cuban patriots in this city to deny the report, the inefficient cable service made it impossible to verify it. These messages said that a convention was held at Camaquey. The letters were dated August 1, and were written apparently immediately after the election. The letters said that a republic had been formed and that the delegates attending had come from all parts of the island. It further said that all districts engaged in actual warfare against Spain had been represented by accredited delegates and that the choice had been unanimous. Camaquey was declared the temporary capital, and here a Cabinet was organized by the new President.

The new Government is still in an embryonic state. No constitution was drafted and the officials chosen are only to serve temporarily until a government can be fully formed and a regular election take place. General Bartolome Masso, the newly elected President, was the choice of General-in-Chief Gomez. He is skilled in statecraft and actual warfare. The faith that the Government has in him is manifested by the fact that the selection of a Cabinet was left entirely to his discretion. This Cabinet consists of three Ministers of the Interior, six Ministers of War and one Foreign Minis ter. Señor Estrada Palma will doubtiess be chosen by General Masso as Foreign Minister. Senor Palma has not been informed of his appointment, but his recent election in New-York and the responsible post which he holds here will make him the logical candidate for the office.

DETAILS OF THE BATTLE AT BAYAMO. Gonzalo de y Quesada, a nephew of General Quesada and also secretary of the Cuban Revolutionary party, received private letters which gave fuller details of the recent battle at Bayamo. The writer says that the Spaniards lost one general, three chiefs of division, fourteen line officers and thirty-three privates. The rebels lost in all seventyfour men, among them being their General phonze Gonie. This letter is dated July 31, at Mon phonze Gonle. This letter is dated July 3, at Montompolo. The writer also gave a list of General Macco's staff officers. He says that these officers, who number twenty in all, comprise many of the delegates which elected General Masso Fresident. The names of the officers as given are Colonel Adolph Parra, Chief Surgeon Dr. J. Castillo, Confidential Secretary R. Portuondo, Chief Engineer M. Sanchez, Assistant Engineers P. Aguilera and E. Aguilera. The letters say further that the writer is within the camp of General Macco and that the insurgent army has the utmost confidence in ultimate success.

insurgent army has the utmost confidence in ultimate success.

These letters are said to have been brought by D. B. Dodge, an American, who was a passenger on the steamship Niagara on her last trip out. He could not be seen, however, and it is doubtful whether he was the messenger, as he has not been identified with the Cuoan cause. It is said that he was the bearer of messages on the outward trip to General Macco from General Rarael de y Quesada, who is now in Venezuela, and other Cuban leaders in New-York, and that he brought these letters back. The story says that he stopped off at Santiago and looked over the ground, and is in report to the leaders here verbally, as well as by letter, of the progress that has been made in Cuba in fighting the Spanish troops under General Martinez Campos. There were many conflicting stories about to the leaders here verbally, as well as by lett of the progress that has been made in Cuba fighting the Spanish troops under General Martin Campos. There were many conflicting stories abe his trip. One story says that he took $28,000 on to Cuba with him. The passengers on the vessay, however, that if he took that smount money he kept very quiet about it, and that appliently all he had was his passage money. Another report says that he brought $45,000 back to revolutionary leaders in New-York which was of tributed by wealthy Cubans. This seems very is probable as the money is for use in Cuba, and divulge the name of their messenger, as they said that they might want to use him him again, and that if he became generally known the Spaniards would know him the next time that he went over.

CORBETT AND FITZSIMMONS IN A SCRAP THEY COME TO BLOWS IN A PHILADELPHIA

HOTEL-BRADY AND CORBETT'S BROTHER IN THE FIGHT.

Philadelphia, Aug. 10.-"Bob" Fitzsimmons and James J. Corbett came to blows in this city tonight at Green's Hotel. The Corbett party had been drinking and in a spirit of braggadocio Corbett attempted to pull Fitzsimmons's nose. The latter backed away, but Corbett followed up and finally Fitzsimmons resisted. In a moment there was a general fight. Brady picked up chair and attempted to brain Fitzsimmons, and the latter threw him to one side. Corbett's brother then struck Fitzsimmons in the mouth, cutting his lip. Thomas Forrest came to Fitzsimmons's assistance, and he and Joseph Corbett simmons's assistance, and he and Joseph Corbett were tusseling about the place, knocking chairs and tables to the right and left.

Meanwhile Corbett was trying to get at Fitz-simmons, and then McVey got into the struggling crowd. Seeing the odds against him, Fitzsimmons picked up a heavy water decanter and hurled it at Brady and Joe Corbett. The flying bottle went wide of its mark, and striking a heavy iron column, was smashed into thousands of fragments. As soon as they could recover from their astonishment the attaches of the place rushed at the struggling crowd of excited pugilists and attempted to separate them. It was a hard job, and a reserve force of police officers were called in, and in a few moments the men were separated. Corbett and his party left the place.

No arrests were made.

!AFTER AN EX-CITY TREASURER. JOHN E. SULLIVAN, OF INDIANAPOLIS, SAID TO

BE A DEFAULTER IN THE AMOUNT OF $160,000. Toronto Ont., Aug. 10.-Sergeant Schwab and Detective Stout of the Indianapolis police force arrived here to-day to prosecute a search for ex-City Treasurer John E. Sullivan, of Indianapolis, who is said to be a defaulter to the extent of $160,000. Government detectives were put on the case. They traced the fugitive to Toronto and learned that he is at present engaged in business in Toronto under an assumed name.

DOES ELECTRICITY KILL!

HANGING A THING OF THE PAST.

HANGING A THING OF THE PAST.

From The Brooklyn Eagle.

One thing at least is reasonably sure: We shall not go back to the old bungling, barbarous, brutal and uncertain hanging. Execution by electricity is appropriate to the age we live in. It does not make a revolting scene like a hanging. It is accompanied by no noise and disturbance. It is instant in its action and a stout neck or a strong physique does not prolong the death into an agony that must seem to the victim to endure for ages. Nor is the victim usually inspired by the terror and physical fear that overcome him at the sight of weapons or axes or a gallows. We are not for coddling crimials, by any means, but when we put them out of the world we can afford to do it in a rapid and businesslike way. The sentence of the law for murder is death, not torture. IF ELECTRICITY DOESN'T KILL, WHAT DOES

IT DO? From The Boston Herald. From The Boston Heraid.

If electricity doesn't kill, as Nicola Tesla declares, what does it do? When the brain and heart are disrupted, the tissues destroyed by fire, it seems as though artificial respiration, if it were kept up ever so long, wouldn't avail much. Some persons are more susceptible to electricity than others, and perhaps Tesla's ability to receive a million voits unharmed is no criterion of safety to the average citizen who flops at fifty.

EDISON'S "IGNORANCE" OF ELECTRICITY. From The Elizabeth (N. J.) Journal.

From The Elizabeth (N. J.) Journal.

Mr. Edison has given the following definition of electricity: "It is a mysterious fluid about which nothing is known." Certainly, if any one could tell what electricity is, Mr. Edison would seem to be the man. But he frankly acknowledges entire ignorance of it. He knows, undoubtedly, a multitude of ways in which it manifests itself, and he has been marvellously successful in utilizing those manifestations. But of the force itself he knows nothing. DON'T CARE TO TRY IT. From The Burlington Free Press.

Thomas A. Edison, the electric inventor, expresses the opinion that electrocution is sure death, and that resuscitation after death from electricity is utterly impossible. So far as we are concerned we are perfectly willing to take Mr. Edison's word for it. LONG BEACH HOTEL

BOOK FIRMS DEFRAUDED.

PUBLISHERS.

THE NEW GOVERNMENT IN AN EMBRYONIC STATE FOUR MEN CAPTURED-ONE ARREST AND A SEIZ-URE OF BOOKS MADE IN PHILADEL-> PHIA-OPERATIONS AMOUNTING TO THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS.

Herman Schneck, fifty-one years old, of No. 222 East Eighty-fifth-st., charged with being one of the conspirators who have within a month defrauded a number of publishing firms out of books worth veral thousand dollars, was arraigned before istrate Mott, in the Harlem Court, yesterday. Schneck is charged with defrauding the Maxwell Summerville Publishing Company, the Meth Book Concern and D. Appleton & Co. J. M. Rogers, manager of the Maxwell Summerville Company, made affidavit that on July 31 Schneck purchased from W. T. Dickerson, agent of the company, the Encyclopaedia Britannica, in twenty-five volumes. for $87.50, the amount to be paid in monthly install ments and the books to be the property of the firm until wholly paid for. The books were purchased through a canvasser named C. Hanch.

*George Finn, manager for D. Appleton & Co., testified that on August 1 Schneck purchased from him the Universal Cyclopedia, in seven volumes, for $49, the terms to be the same as those on which the Encyclopaedia Britannica was purchased.

Thomas Kibble, manager of the Methodist Book Concern, testified that on July 21 he sold Schneck the People's Encyclopaedia and other books for $52

All these books, according to the evidence, Schneck sent to Cooke's auction room, One-hundred-and-twenty-fifth-st, and Third-ave., to be sold on Thursday for his account. In the mean time the publishing firms had become suspicious and aware that there was an organized conspiracy to swindle them. Through Detective Smith, of the East One-hundredand-twenty-sixth-st. station, they traced the books from Schneck's house to the auction room. When Schneck appeared at the auction-room on Friday to receive the proceeds of the sale, the detective arrested him. When the case was called yesterday Schneck's counsel, B. H. Malone, waived examina-tion, and the prisoner was held in $1,600 batt for trial on each charge. Having no bondsman, he was sent to prison.

Messrs. Finn, Rogers and Kibble said that they believed Schneck and his confederates had swindled ablishing firms out of thousands of dollars' worth of books. ALLEGED PHYSICIANS IN CUSTODY.

Acting Captain O'Brien, of the Detective Bureau, esterday told of the arrest of two alleged doctors, who are charged with swindling book publishers in this city. The names of the men are Otto Van Ness, twenty-three years old, of No. 146 West Seventy-first-st., and Charles G. Wilhelmy, twenty-eight years old, of No. 121 West Thirty-second-st. They were arrested Friday night by Detectives Mc-Carthy and Weller, at Broadway and Eighth-st. Both professed to be physicians, but Acting Captain O'Brien says they are frauds. They are alleged to have swindled Appleton & Co., the Methodist Book Concern, the Maxwell-Summerville Company and several other firms, from whom they have obtained valuable books. The mode of operation was to pur-chase books on subscription from agents and dis-pose of them. When the collector came around, the pose of them. When the conestor the pose of them, when the control of the conestor that Van Ness and Wilhelm had shipped eleven cases of books to Philadelphia, and he telegraphed to Chief of Police Linden to arrest the person to whom the books were consigned.

WORK OF THE PHILADELPHIA POLICE. He received last night a dispatch from Chief Linen announcing the arrest there of F. L. Winter, alias Carroll, alias Hock, another one of the gang of book swindlers. The Chief also telegraphed that he had setzed the eleven cases of books sent by Van Ness and Wilhelm to Winter at Philadelphia The books were found in the house of a Mrs. Chal-fonte, at No. 40 North Eleventh-st. Winter was arrested on a warrant issued by Magistrate Deueli in the Jefferson Market Court on Friday. On being searched by Chief Linden, there were found in his posseszion three pawn tickets, representing eighteen more books. Winter is held in Philadelphia to await the arrival of a New-York officer. It is said that the prisoner Schneck has made a confession, and says that there were eight principals in the gang of swindlers. The books were found in the house of a Mrs. Chalto its sun, and says that there were eight principals in the gang of swindlers.

Van Ness and Wilhelm were taken by detectives before Maristrate Deuel, in the Jefferson Market Court, yesterday. Both men demanded examinations, and refused to make any statements until they had employed counsel. Van Ness was held in $2.00, and Wilhelm in $500 for examination to-morrow afternoon.

The specific charge against Van Ness was stealing a quantity of books valued at $420, from Bryan Taylor & Co., of No. 61 East Ninth-st. The charge was made by Chauncey W. Brown, the superintendent of the firm.

Wilhelmy was held on the complaint of Henry W. Wilhelmy was held on the complaint of Henry W. Knight, superintendent of the Methodist Book Concern, who accuses him of taking a set of Ridpath's "Great Race of Mankind," valued at $23.

HOW THE SCHEME WAS WORKED. Henry W. Knight, superintendent of the subscription department of the Methodist Book Concern, who has been instrumental in bringing the swindlers to book, was seen last night by a Tribune reporter. He described in full the scheme of the gang, which, he said, numbered nine persons, and showed the weak spot in the subscription system which made firms using it liable to be robbed. He expressed surprise that book concerns had not suffered more than they have from shrewd swindlers.

"About two weeks ago," said Mr. Knight, "there ame to us a young man who said his name was G. Fehrmann, and that he desired to become an agent. He was well dressed and of most preposagent. He was well the was about twenty-five years seasing appearance; he was about twenty-five years old, and spoke with a decided German accent. It is our usual custom to demand $5 deposit from an agent to secure us for the value of the samples we given him, but Fehrmann said he did not want an outfit and would only take a few sample pages. Consequently, we did not ask for references or inquire at his address, which he gave as No. 213 East Forty-first at he gave as no consequently. Forty-first-st., as is our usual custom. So we accepted the young man as our agent, and orders soon

"I can best describe to you how the swindling was done by telling you about an actual case. We pay our agents 25 per cent, and they get their whole commission when the first payment is made. Thus, for example, if an agent gets a subscriber for a $30 set of books, our regular man delivers them. If he finds the subscriber all right he leaves the books and collects $2, the first payment, as the books are, of course, sold on the instalment plan, and we immediately pay the agent his $7.50 mission. Now to give you an example. About the first order Fehrmann brought in was that of Dr. Charles G. Wilhelmy, of No. 123 West Eighty-second-st., for a set of our People's Encyclopaedia, six volumes, price $30. We sent our man with the books. He reported that he found Wilhelmy installed in her sent our man with the total with the sent our man with the books. installed in handsome quarters, with shelves upon shelves of books rising up on all sides. Our agent recognized many of the works and spoke casually of them. 'Yes,' said the supposed doctor. 'I have lately fallen heir to an annuity of $1,800 a year from Germany and I am collecting a library. I in-tend laying out about $75 a month in books, and think the instalment plan the best way to get a good library together.

Our man was satisfied and left the books, after collecting 12. Then, of course, Fehrmann at once got his $750. You see the beauty of their methods. The gang not only got our books, but collecting $750 or whatever the commission might be, besides—a sort of burning the candle at both ends. The illustration I have just given you shows exactly how the plan was worked between the confederates, not only with our commern, but with the other firms.

THE LEADER OF THE SWINDLERS. "Fehrmann appears to have been the leader of the gang, and under different names, acted as agent for the various book firms. He was G. Fehrmann with us, William Hermann with Werner & Co., Hauck with Summerville, and so on. "Another peculiar feature of the gang," continued Mr. Knight, "is that they are all young, nice-ap-pearing men, and speak with a decided German accent. To make it short, Wilhelmy attempted to sell a set of Thackery, worth $250 a volume, to Lovering, in Broadway, for seventy-five cents a volume. Lovering had already bought from him, had become suspicious, and had reported the matter to Bryan, Taylor & Co. and other firms. Men were to Bryan, Taylor & Co. and other firms. Men were at once sent to see Wilhelmy, for by the numbers on the books it was shown who had bought them, and although our men stayed around his house until after midnight on Thursday, no Wilhelmy-appeared. He had evidently smelled a rat. "Anyway, when the men got around the next morning, the man had skipped, and the books were gone. He and the others were arrested yesterday afternoon in Astor Place. From papers on Van Ness, we found how the thing was worked. He had a dispatch which read as follows: 'Business good; sent sample by express; balance of books by freight; signed 'Winter,' who without doubt is Febrmann, and is now under arrest in Philadelphia. He also had a shipping receipt for twelve cases of books, weighing 1.500 pounds, addressed to Winter, care of Mrs. Chalfante, in North Eleventh-st. Philadelphia.

"We have the names of all the members of the gang, but think it best not to make them public before they have been arrested. Here are some of the amounts that firms have been swindled out of, in round figures: Methodist Book Concern, $500; Werner & Co., $759; D. Appleton & Co., $590, and Maxwell Summerville, $1,899. These are only part, and you must remember that all this swindling has been done in the last ten days or two weeks." This matter will, I believe," said Mr. Knight, in conclusion, "result in some sort of combination among the book firms. The thing has been talked of before, but things were never brought to a head. For protection from bum and fake agents and swindlers of all sorts we need some regular system upon which we can all agree and work. This can only be done by an agreement or combination, and I think that such a combination will now be formed. We run a great risk in selling books on the instalment plan, and, notwithstanding all our carefulness, we are sometimes bitten. I am surprised that we have not been caught oftener."

In answer to a question on the subject he stated that the Government would investigate the matter and send a reply to the communication. He stated, however, that his report would show that the evidence against Dureell was abundant and would fully satisfy the American abundant and wound fully accept a prested and confined. He was, however, strongly opposed to the revolution, and made himself obnoxious to the Provisional Government, who came to regard the British Legation as a chief centre of royalist intrigue. Those unfriendly relations of the late Minister have just been emphasized by the refusal of Foreign Minister. M. After several days' consideration a positive refusal was returned; the reason assigned was that Mr. Wodehouse still had an official character of which he could not so divest himself as to render his visit to the former Queen merely one of friendship. THE OSTEND BATHING SEASON.

The crowd of notabilities at Ostend is unprecedented, and is daily increasing. Last week Henry Stanley, the great African explorer, there, for the purpose of visiting King Leopold, who is now in residence for the season at his villa, where he has entertained many royal guests. Among the guests was the Crown Prince of Siam, accompanied by his two younger brothers. A great feature of Ostend is the gathering of the best classes, representing every civilized country. Among the visitors are many Americans, drawn thither by the magnificent surf bathing, on a beach of clean white sand, firm as a ballroom floor and smooth as a billiard table. Added to this, there are the concerts and full-dress balls at the Kursaal, which offers besides about all of the distractions of Monte Carlo. There are the pigeon-shooting matches, horse races, battles of flowers, and some of the finest and best appointed hotels to be found anywhere in Europe.
